Digital T-Stats in ALL Dippers!

C. Nelson Manufacturing Company is switching to digital thermostats in all ice cream dipping cabinets. These digital thermostats eliminate the guessing of temperature settings. The digital thermostat displays a constant readout of the sensed temperature and offers simple keypad programming for adjustments at your fingertips, giving the user the ability to change temperatures 1 degree at a time. We have chosen a controller designed specifically for refrigeration applications. These controls are easily the best choice for simply and effectively managing the broad range of temperatures for scooping and serving frozen desserts.

Simple Pleasure, Rare Treasure

Here's an unintended consequence of the move from glass containers to plastic and the increase in recycling: We're running out of sea glass. The shards of old bottles, scoured by sand and salt water, are becoming increasingly hard to find, the North American Sea Glass Association says in a story in the August issue of National Geographic magazine. Sea glass started out as trash dumped from ships or washed from dumpsites. Strange to think that one form of trash turns into a treasure we'll miss when there is no more.

You'll find me walking the beach close by my home early in the morning alone, after work or at lunch with my dog, Lillie, or hand in hand with Dan at sunset. I discovered the small private beach just this summer and also discovered beach glass. Although Mom used to enjoy such things, I never did, till now. I am an official beachcomber and have converted several family members. We scour the sands in search of the coveted rare pieces. As we discover these treasures we're making our own memories that will return as the sea glass does, polished smooth, more valuable over time. Find a rocky beach, search for sea glass and other treasures with someone special and make memories.
